ABOUT THE EVENT:

What is the Share the Code. Hit the Road. event?

Enterprise and Sir Rosevelt are putting on an epic, one-night-only show, featuring Cirque du Soleil, that is driven by "paying it forward." It all starts with 10 fans who each get a unique ticket code and it grows from there, as each of the 10 fans share their code with two people they think deserve to be celebrated – and so on, until all codes are redeemed. The concert will be amazing. But the journey there will be even better.

Who Can Participate?

Only legal residents of the fifty (50) United States plus the District of Columbia who are 21 years of age or older are eligible to receive tickets and codes. US territories (Puerto Rico, US Virgin Islands, etc.) are not eligible.

How does the code sharing process work?

Codes = tickets

- Sir Rosevelt will kick-off the campaign by sharing unique codes with 10 lucky fans.
- Those fans will receive three codes to then share with people they want to “pick up” and bring on this journey with them.
- Each fan who receives a code will also receive three additional codes to share until all 5000 codes are distributed.
- As codes are being shared, fans will be able to track progress of the codes via sharethecode.us.
- Enterprise and Sir Rosevelt are celebrating the people who serve others through acts of kindness big and small. This method of code-sharing aligns nicely with Enterprise’s model of “picking people up” throughout this journey of life. Thanks to Enterprise, people all over will be able to pick up the people who mean the most to them and bring them to this one-night-only, special event.
- Sir Rosevelt is embarking on a new musical journey and it begins on August 7 in a room full of fans who have made a special journey to get there.
- The best / easiest way to view the code-sharing way of ticketing is thinking of it as paying it forward.
